"INFORMATION. We want information...information...information..."

So it shall be. ICON, being presented by S.F.L.I.S. (pronounced just like the disease), is going full tilt. It will take place within the limitations of total insanity at the IRONMEN INN in the township of Coralville, which is an appendage of Iowa City. The motel is attainable via Interstate 80 to the Coralville Exit. It's easy to spot. Just look for the cluster of buildings done in early Fort Apache.

The rates are $16 for a single and 21.00 for a double.

Registration fees are $5 in advance, and $7 at the door. Checks should be made payable to Greg Frost, Chairman. Send them to Box 510, Iowa City, Iowa 52240.

GoH is none other than Roger (the fit hit the Shan) Zelazny. Other attending writers include Philip Jose Farmer, Wilson Tucker, George R.R. Martin, Joe Haldeman, Alex and Phyllis Eisenstein, and Gordon R. Dickson,

Now, all this takes place from October 31 to November 2, and in honor of All Hallows Eve, Icon is asking that everyone attending bring at the very least a mask for the Masquerade Ball, being held Saturday night, Nov. 1. Of course, if you feel the desire to wear a more unique or fantastic attire, there will be a costume contest with prizes guaranteed to collect many rude gestures before Sunday.

Panel subjects include Mythology in S.F.; Researching S.F.; and one we have no preparatory knowledge of ourselves--Frankenstein Shall Rise Again. (The others we won't tell you about except to say there will be a few oddities mixed in.)

There will be Huckster tables; there will be booze (SMOOTH); there will be parties; there will not, due to complications, be an art show though what you sell in your rooms is up to you. There will be music, dancing, ha-cha-cha. Did we mention the films? Come visit and enjoy yourself before winter sets in. If you have any questions, please contact Greg Frost at the above box number. (And don't put mirrors in your bedrooms.)
